COURSE REQUIREMENTS

The Course opens in Course Messages. Please read your emails 3 times per week to keep up with assignments. Assignments are noted at the end of the syllabus, but reminders will be sent to Course Messages. Go to your current module where everything you are assigned for that unit is there for you to complete. This includes discussion questions as well as the study guides for that Learning Module.

1. EXAMS: There will be a major test after every 4 to 5 modules covered. There will be three major exams. See schedule for further details. An announcement will be made in advance in Course Messages. No makeup examinations will be given. Call the instructor immediately if there is a problem. The Test should be completed in the time frame given. The Exams will be posted in the Module last studied. These Tests will be worth 67% of your total grade. If you have trouble accessing the exam, call immediately so this can be rectified. Make sure you have a reliable internet connection before you begin. The exams are designed to assess your learning of the content for those particular modules.

Time Limits for Exams

The time allotted for each exam is one hour. The exam must be completed in one sitting once began. The exams will be posted on Friday and will close Sunday at midnight. I encourage you to complete the assignments early rather than wait until the last minute to complete them. Make sure that you have a stable internet connection. If you have trouble, call me immediately.

2. STUDY GUIDES (no grade assigned to these). There will be a Study Guide for each Module. These will not be counted in your grade, but will help you do well on the Exams. These will be posted in the module being studied. These must be completed by Sunday midnight. You may take the study guide only one time. There are no time limits in taking these, but they must be completed by midnight Sunday. Many of these same questions will be seen in the Exams for that unit. Copy the test questions before you begin so you can have them to study for the Exams. Read the chapter first. Complete the module Study Guide to see how well you are learning the material. You may make copies of these study guides, but I will not reopen them for you to do so. Once you hit submit, you will not be able to access them again.

3. BLOG (discussion) question: You are to post twice for each discussion. There are 9 of these total, and they are posted on the Learning Module. This assignment will be worth 13% of your total grade. The first response will be directed to the question the instructor has posed to the class. The second response will be made to another student’s posting. Respond in your own words. Be sure to make complete responses. When you respond to someone else, do not simply say, “I agree with you.” Explain why you agree or disagree. It will be okay to disagree, but each of us will be expected to be respectful to each other. Most students forget to respond to another student’s posting, and this adversely affects their grade. To see class responses you must click the arrow in the upper right corner under your name, then other students’ names will appear, click some and read them, then respond to at least one. These are to be completed by Sunday midnight. These responses will be graded on a 5 point scale based on Bloom’s taxonomy. The criterion for grading the responses will be as follows;

The discussions are designed to help you think critically about a particular topic that is important in Abnormal Psychology. It is also designed to help students to interact with each other and share their insights. I will provide feedback at the completion of the discussion that I will send you on Course Messages.

The PLO’s relating to these assignments are PLO #’s 1,2,3, & 4.

Late responses will be accepted, but points will be deducted accordingly. Late responses to others will not be graded. You will be graded on your discussion original response to my query as well as your response to someone else’s post. You will be graded according to the following criteria;

5 points: The student has thoroughly summarized the question in the student’s own words. The student has made several statements indicating an understanding of the question, and the issues stated therein. The student has exhibited a cogent analysis and has included the student’s own thoughts about the question or has synthesized information from diverse areas or made a distinction in concepts and component facts.

4 points: The student has thoroughly summarized the article in the student’s own words. The student has made several statements indicating an understanding of the article and the issues raised by the article.

3 points: The student has thoroughly summarized the article in the student’s own words, and conveys an understanding of those facts, but not the important issues.

2 points: The student has given a sketchy summary of the information.

1 point  student’s responded, but the response was not related to the question asked.

FLOW OF ASSIGNMENTS AND LOCATIONS:

This is what you should do every chapter:

1. READ CHAPTER- look at slides and notes
2. RESPOND TO MY BLOG QUESTION AND RESPOND TO SOMEONE ELSE’S RESPONSE (located in the module) These discussions are completed after module 8.
3. COMPLETE Module STUDY GUIDE (located in Course Contents button under that module number).
4. Major Exams are given every 4 or 5 chapters, and these will be announced in your Course Messages on your BB course site.

4. Disorder Paper
The paper will be worth 100 points of your total grade. The paper will meet several the GELO’s including critical thinking, communicating effectively; using technology responsibly and effectively. The Department/PLO #’s that relate to this assignment are #’s 1, 2, 3, & 4.

The completion of a research paper as follows;

You are to select a psychiatric disorder that interests you that you want to explore. Review the relevant descriptive material such as associated features, age of onset, course of illness, level of impairment, complications, predisposing factors, prevalence, familial patterns, sex ratio, differential diagnosis, etc. as indicated in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders: (DSM-V). Consult various sources to determine recommended treatment options (I have listed several of this that are required at the end of the syllabus). This paper should be 7-10 pages in length (including title and reference pages) following APA style format. The APA format will be demonstrated in files placed in the Learning Modules (in the Paper folder). Slide down to the bottom of the page and open the folder to access the information.

The grade on the paper may be exchange for 1 of your exams in addition to counting as your paper grade if that score is better than one of your exams. This replacement can only occur if you have taken all the exams. You may not substitute the paper grade for a 0 grade on an exam you have never taken.

Sources: You must use at least 7 sources for your paper.

1. You must get notes from your textbook and submit them to the instructor according to the due dates at the bottom of the syllabus under Important Dates.
2. You must use The Diagnostic & Statistical Manual – V (DSM-V, 2013) of the American Psychiatric Association. This source is available on our library website. Go to the library site, select databases by subject, select Psychology and then click on Psychiatry online. The DSM-V is located at the top of this page. Take notes and submit these to the instructor according to the due date at the bottom of the syllabus.
3. You must use The American Psychiatric Association Textbook of Psychiatry edited by Yudofsky and others. It is located on the Psychiatry online link as well. Submit these notes to the instructor by the due date.
4. You must submit notes from Kaplan & Sadock’s Comprehensive Textbook of Psychiatry. Go to the library site, click on databases, then find Kaplan & Sadock and select this to go to the work.
5&6. You should use at least two journal articles. You do not have to submit these to the instructor. Professional journals are the norm. If you need help to identify peer reviewed journals, talk to the instructor. You can go to the databases on our library site, then slide down to Psych Articles. You may also go to Google Scholar.
to find some articles. Professional journal articles are used later in your research for finding information about specific topics that you want to explore as a result of finding the basic information for your paper.

7. Select a seventh reference of your choice making sure it is a professional source not a news article.

I have a copy of the score sheet on BB for you to review. 10% of your paper grade is based on sending me notes on a timely schedule from the sources I have requested as well as putting your First Draft and Final Draft into Safe Assign (instructions will be given in a timely fashion. You will also be graded (20% of total paper) on plagiarism and citing properly.

We do have an embedded librarian who will post information on the Course Messages tab on BlackBoard. She is happy to take your questions. Also, if you go to the library, they are willing to help you navigate the databases as well as other useful information to facilitate your writing your paper.

SAFE ASSIGN: The First Draft of your paper should be submit your First Draft to Safe Assign. This will give you a report concerning potential plagiarism of anything in your paper. I will have this on the Contents Page (SafeAssign First Draft). Click on it, attach your paper to the SafeAssignOption1FirstDraft). Cut and paste only the body of the paper to SafeAssign as that will reduce your plagiarism grade. In a day or two go back to Safe Assign, and click View/Complete and your report will be generated. If your plagiarism rate is more than 25%, you will need to put more of your paper in your own words. Even if you cite properly (which you should do), over 25% is too much.

You will submit your final paper to SafeAssign as well. The instructor will use this submission to assure that no plagiarism has occurred. Your plagiarism rate should be no more than 25% for the final draft. Also, you need to cite every paragraph properly to avoid plagiarism. Examples of this will be found on the course contents page.

How to format the paper and find the above references are located in the Paper folder at the bottom of the Course Contents page. Good student examples are also located there as well for your perusal.

Grade Replacement: Your grade on the paper may be exchange for your lowest exam in addition to counting as your paper grade as well, so the paper can really help your grade.

Consultation: I am happy to consult with you on your paper. I would prefer to do this either in office or via telephone as email takes too long sometimes to clarify some aspects, and it is difficult to have a substantial interaction of thought processes.

SAFE ASSIGN: For the paper, you will be submit your First Draft to Safe Assign. This will give you a report concerning potential plagiarism of anything in your paper. I will have this on the Contents Page (First Draft SafeAssign). Click on it, cut and paste the body of your paper (not title page or reference page) to SafeAssign. In a day or two go back to Safe Assign, and click View/Complete and your report will be generated. If you have over 25% plagiarism rate, you will need to put more of it in your own words even if you cite it properly. You will submit your final paper to Safe Assign as well (SafeAssignFinalDraft). The instructor will use this submission to assure that no plagiarism has occurred. If you have more than 25% plagiarism rate or you do not cite your paper properly, points will be deducted appropriately up to 20 points.

Writing is an integral component of doing college level work. The instructor, and the librarian will do everything we can to help you to enhance your writing capabilities. Do not hesitate to ask questions or seek consultation early. We will utilize an embedded librarian in the course. She will post important information to help you complete your assignment. You may ask her questions as well as the instructor.
